Marijuana: Health Problems

[

Sua Noh

Have you ever heard about Marijuana, which makes your body sick? Marijuana can be terribly bad for your health. It can affect anyone in the world. Some of the countries have banned marijuana in their country but if there are people around the world who are smoking marijuana because it is not banned in their country the plan won't work.

As I said, it causes health problems. For example, it makes your heart beat faster and your brain slower. You may just think that it doesn't really matter but it really does.

According to Jeffery Chen and medically reviewed after a few minutes inhaling marijuana smoke, a person's heart rate can speed up, the breathing passages can slow down and become enlarged, and blood vessels in the eyes can expand, making the eyes look bloody.

So for the problem solving part, we should try to ban Marijuana everywhere. No one can use Marijuana anymore. It will be hard for the people who are already using them to just not use it any more but it is for their health and safety.

If you ask my opinion, people who make drugs like Marijuana and sell them to teens should be the first to be searched and put into jail.

People who use marijuana are likely to develop temporary psychosis and long-lasting mental disorders. According to the national academies in Washington DC, people who begin using marijuana at an early age are more likely to use marijuana more frequently. Worse, they might use a much more dangerous drug in the future.

Marijuana is the worst for pregnant women in my opinion, it is because Marijuana can affect brain development.

Developing brains in babies, children and teenagers can be especially susceptible to the harmful effects of marijuana. The scientific studies show that marijuana use by mothers during pregnancy could be linked to problems with learning, memory, and behavior in their children. That was according to The Department Of Health And Human Services.

So Marijuana is the worst drug you can have in the whole world in my opinion. Also the government has to solve this problem fast because they need to care about their people and the environment because marijuana affects both and they are not small problems, I assure you. The little effort to ban Marijuana can save a whole lot of people's lives.
